Marcia Camino is a yoga teacher, trainer, speaker, and consultant and an Expressive Arts Consultant and Educator in training. She is founder and chief operator of Pink Lotus Yoga, an inclusionary, eclectic-style studio offering public yoga classes and events, private and semi-private lessons, monthly community outreach, and a multi-style yoga teacher certification program that includes an introduction to yoga therapeutics. Marcia holds an M.F.A. in Creative Writing from the University of Alaska/Fairbanks and a B.A. in English from Bowling Green State University.

Marcia has spoken and presented on a wide range of yoga and yoga-related topics at various institutions including Beck Center for the Arts, Case Western Reserve University, Lakewood Public Library, Rocky River Public Library, Avon Lake Public Library, Cuyahoga Country Public Library, College Club of Cleveland, Mindful Ohio's Dancing Mindfulness Facilitators Retreat, PR Newswire, LGBT Cleveland, various local schools, and at private events in Northeast Ohio.

As a yoga program creator and programming event consultant, Marcia has worked to establish or advance a yoga presence at Cuyahoga Community College, MOCA Cleveland, Cleveland Botanical Gardens, Case Western Reserve University, College Club of Cleveland, the Lakewood Historical Society, and Cleveland One World Festival. Her work in Expressive Arts including her curriculum called Yoetry (a yoga and poetry experiential) offers innovative explorations into the vast connections between yoga and art.

In addition to her degrees, Marcia has earned certifications in Dancing Mindfulness™, Introduction to Expressive Arts Therapy, CWRU Women Staff Leadership, General Yoga Teacher Training, Yin Yoga, Children's Yoga, and children's tutoring. She is a writer of prose and poetry and has completed three books: the training manual for the yoga teacher program she designed in 2013; Crayzee Aayzee (a poetry abecedarian); and Oomee Boomee, Space Yogi (a three-book yoga adventure series for younger readers). Marcia is a private yoga instructor and language tutor for adults and lives in Avon Lake with her husband Joe and their two dogs Harper and Abby.
